*You have the right to remain ignorant.
If you choose to exercise that right,
it can and will be held against you.
You have the right to knowledge,
it has been made accessible and affordable
to all*

Trickster reminds us that life can be either a tragedy or a comedy, and nearly always the choice of which is up to each of us everyday.

An old Indian Chief once described his own inner struggles in this manner: "Inside of me there are two dogs. One of the dogs is mean and evil. The other dog is good. The mean dog fights with the good dog all the time." When asked which dog wins, he reflected a moment and replied, "the one I feed the most."
